

How to teach kids about money

Most parents want to teach their kids about money but just don't know where to start. This is often because when young they were never taught about money themselves.

This workshop helps kids form life changing money habits. It also provides parents with a fun and simple way to learn about money themselves without the fear of their financial knowledge being judged.

This workshop will cover:

- ✿ The importance of teaching kids, as young as 4 years old, about money
- ✿ How to teach kids the different uses of money in an engaging way
- ✿ Pocket Money – The most powerful financial education tool in the world!
- ✿ 3 essential money habits to teach your kids
- ✿ How to teach your kids about the stock market (parents love this part!)

Blue Tree Savings focuses on helping parents teach their kids about money. As well as running workshops for companies, we also write a weekly blog covering a new money related topic to teach kids and have their own digital piggy bank.

We promise not to sell your staff any other services or products. Our focus is to deliver independent employee education for positive change and financial wellbeing.
